

The background is a complex, abstract composition. It features several overlapping, semi-transparent geometric shapes in various shades of gray, including triangles, quadrilaterals, and polygons. These shapes are layered over a solid black background. Scattered throughout the composition are numerous white lines of varying lengths and orientations. Some lines are straight and horizontal or vertical, while others are diagonal or curved. The overall effect is one of dynamic movement and geometric complexity.

Notes on the piece:

This piece was composed during the 2020-2021 COVID global pandemic. Unlike other pieces that I composed during this period, pieces that all served as a means of escape, I wanted to use this piece as a way of documenting what my life has been for the last year. I started writing this piece by creating a list of the most common sounds heard around my apartment, I then asked my partner to order my list along a spectrum of anxiety.

The original list:

1. The first note of the American The Office theme music
2. My dog barking
3. Computer mouse click
4. Boiling water
5. Toilet flush
6. Dishwasher
7. Toaster
8. Snoring
9. Fire Alarm
10. Wind
11. Kitchen cabinets closing
12. The Microsoft Outlook® email notification

I then analyzed each sound through standard Music Information Retrieval (MIR) techniques; f0 estimation, harmonic spread, noisiness, and power; originally intending to use all of the sound samples as musical material. Through the process of composing this piece, I realized that I had enough material in a single sound, the sound that causes my partner the most stress, the sound of her work email. This piece is both composed by data extracted from this stressful sound and serves as a way to re-contextualize and remove the anxiety associated with the sound. The title is a nod to the source material and a hopeful look to the future as the vaccine rollout continues.

Performance notes:

All grace notes are to be played on the beat.

All rolls are to be unmetered.
